Materiales

La biodegradabilidad es la capacidad que tienen las sustancias y los materiales orgánicos de descomponerse en sustancias más simples mediante la actividad (enzimática) de microorganismos.

La compostabilidad es la capacidad de un material orgánico de transformarse en compost mediante el proceso de compostaje. El compostaje es un proceso biológico aeróbico (que tiene lugar ante la presencia del oxígeno), controlado por el hombre. Conduce a la producción de una mezcla de materia orgánica.

El reciclaje es un proceso cuyo objetivo es convertir desechos en nuevos productos o en materia prima para su posterior utilización.
